

Collaborative Decision-making: making SEND/CYP Reforms meaningful:

This flexible 3-day training package (1 full day and 4 half-day or evening sessions) has been developed to help health, education, social care practitioners collaborate with children, young people and their parents/carers and each other. The aim is for each person around the child to contribute to identifying and reviewing meaningful plans that achieve the aspirations of children, young people and families and support evidence-based review.

It is suitable for practitioners from all disciplines and sectors, and parents/carers involved in the in teams around children and young people with additional support needs.

LEARNING OUTCOMES: Participants be able to confidently:

- understand and empathise with the desired outcomes, hopes and dreams of children/young people and their families
- engage in co-producing achievable goals for the next key stage with parents, young people and other members of the TAC
- negotiate the level of engagement/input needed from each in the TAC (including the child/young person and family) to achieve these outcomes
- agree and record a clear, accountable plan with clear evaluation timescales
- influence and agree how the outcomes will be evaluated
- collaborate in reviewing and re-negotiate needs based on to measurable outcomes/evidence

PROGRAMME OUTLINE: This programme is made up of an initial, essential 1-day workshop, followed by four skills-based sessions (3½ hours) which are optional.

- A core workshop (1 day) - Collaborative Decision-making: A framework for decision-making to improve well-being and safety for children and young people. This workshop is a pre-requisite for participation in any of the skills-based workshops described below.
- Four bite-sized, skills-based workshops: these sessions are stand alone and can be accessed individually and in any order once the core workshop has been completed.
  1. Supporting children/young people and their families to share their aspirations and tell their stories
  2. Supporting children, young people and families through a multi-professional, integrated assessment that is meaningful and achieves consensus
  3. Co-producing and drafting intended outcomes and SMART goals
  4. What does it look like? How to complete the EHCP/Child's Plan paperwork

FACILITIES: These should be provided by the service/organisation commissioning the package and, for each workshop, should include:

- a large room (big enough for break-out groups) and refreshments as required
- a data/powerpoint projector, screen and flipchart
- photocopying of handouts
